We recommend that you speak to your central or head office about setting up a V-Base Recruiter account

Within V-Base Recruiter, you can have sub accounts so that your regional offices, individual projects or other staff members, can log in wherever they are and use V-Base Recruiter to upload their opportunities onto Do-it. Because of this, and also to ensure organisations don't have duplicate accounts, we only accept V-Base Recruiter applications from the central or head office.

If your central or head office decides not to get a V-Base Recruiter account, you can still upload your opportunities onto Do-it via your local Volunteer Centre.

Do you need a database to store information about your volunteers, opportunities or organisations which enables you to report on this information?

Head to your local Volunteer Centre who can help you post opportunities on Do-it

Do-it works in partnership with the Volunteer Centre Network within England. Visit your local Volunteer Centre (VC) to get help posting your volunteering opportunity onto Do-it. To find your nearest VC, enter your postcode in the VC-Finder. If you are not based in England, the VC finder also contains the contact details of Volunteer Centres in Wales, Northern Ireland and Scotland. Not all of these Volunteer Centres work with Do-it, however they will be able to support you in finding volunteers for your opportunities in other ways.

No Volunteer Centre in your area? Then you can apply for a V-Base Recruiter account.
